CALEXICO — Dancers and musicians with their colorful outfits and flowing dance moves graced the campus of San Diego State University-Imperial Valley campus during the “La Cultura y el Revolución” events organized by the Arts Without Borders Club. The celebration was done to commemorate both Mexico’s bi-centennial of Sept. 16 and the centennial of the Mexican Revolution on Nov. 20, Artes Sin Fronteras adviser Norma Aguilar said.

“It fits in to International Education Week because it exposes students to a different culture,” she said. During the event two music groups and two dance groups performed for the students and community members gathered on campus near the Steppling Art Gallery.
